Industrial Hygiene and Respirator Fit Testing

What is Industrial Hygiene?

Industrial hygiene, by definition, is the science and art devoted to the anticipation, recognition, evaluation, and control of those environmental factors which may cause sickness, impaired health and well-being, or significant discomfort and inefficiency among workers. OSHA has developed and mandated many health requirements in more than six million U.S. workplaces. These requirements include air contaminants and chemical, biological, physical, and ergonomic hazards.

How Can We Help?

Our Industrial Hygienists specialize in monitoring industrial air quality with special emphasis on asbestos, hexavalent chromium, silica, and other air contaminants.

SRCO can conduct physical facility audits in compliance with the American Correctional Association. A written report based on the results of this testing is included with the audit.

Noise monitoring and sound surveying are available to ensure compliance with OSHA standards. Additional services provided are mold identification, legionella testing, and indoor air quality.

We calibrate and service many types of air monitoring equipment and are a factory authorized technician.

Respirator Fit Testing and Medical Evaluations

29CFR 1910.134(f)(2) - "The employer shall ensure that an employee using a tight-fitting facepiece respirator is fit tested prior to initial use of the respirator, whenever a different respirator facepiece (size, style, model or make) is used, and at least annually thereafter."

29CFR 1910.134(e) - "Using a respirator may place a physiological burden on employees that varies with the type of respirator worn, the job and workplace conditions in which the respirator is used, and the medical status of the employee. Accordingly, this paragraph specifies the minimum requirements for medical evaluation that employers must implement to determine the employee's ability to use a respirator."

SRCO offers both Qualitative and Quantitative fit testing. Whether you are using a N95 dust mask or a SCBA we are able to provide the testing you need. Safety Resources also can conduct the medical evaluation required by OSHA before performing respirator fit testing. Onsite services are available on request.

Our Industrial Hygiene and Fit Test Technicians are available if you have any questions or concerns.
